Beginnings

The Creation

In the very beginning, God created the heavens and the earth. The earth had no shape or form, and there was only water and darkness. The spirit of God hovered over the waters, radiating warmth. God said, "Let there be light." And there was light. It flooded out when God spoke. God saw that the light was good, and he separated the light from the darkness. He called the light "day" and the darkness "night". And there was evening and there was morning. It was the first great day of creation.

God said, "Let there be an arching roof to separate the waters above from the waters below." And, having spoken, God made an arching roof called the "heavens". And there was evening and there was morning. It was the second great day of creation.

God said, "Let the water under the heavens come together, and let dry land appear." And, having spoken, it was so. God called the dry land "earth" and the waters "sea". Then God said, "Let the earth grow plants and fruit trees that give seeds." And, having spoken, it was so. God saw that it was good. And there was evening and there was morning. It was the third great day of creation.

God said, "Let there be lights in the arching roof of the heavens to separate

Encounters: Moments of Destiny in the Bible

RUTH EWERTOWSKI

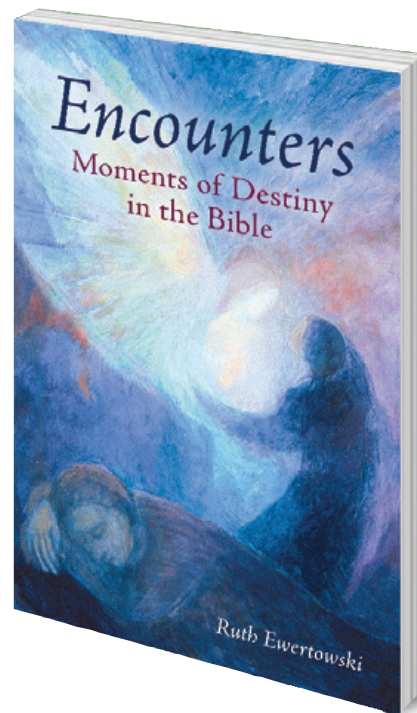

A fascinating examination of key Biblical meetings, perfect for daily reflection

- Explores over 35 key meetings from the Bible including Joseph's confrontations with his brothers and Moses' encounter with God in the burning bush
- The short resonant chapters are ideal for use as daily readings
- Offers a unique and personal perspective on the sweep of the Bible narrative from both the Old and New Testaments

Events in the Bible rarely follow an orderly course. For many of the figures whose stories it tells, fortunes turn, for good or bad, on important encounters with other people and with the divine. In these moments of destiny, individuals discover something new and remarkable that changes the course of their lives.

Ewertowski shows how the weaknesses, setbacks and failures of the Bible's all-too-human protagonists are brought into harmony with a divine plan.

The short, self-contained chapters are perfect as daily readings, but together they provide a panoramic sweep of the Bible narrative from its beginnings through to the ministry of Christ, the apostles' encounter with the Holy Spirit at Pentecost, and St Paul's experience on the road to Damascus.

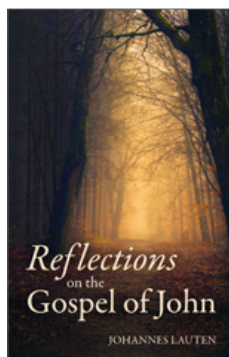

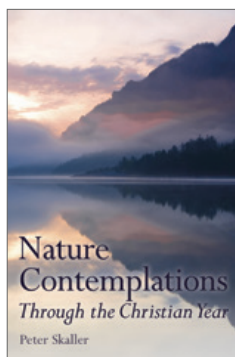

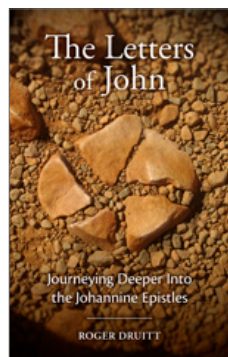

Ruth Ewertowski was born in Frankfurt, Germany. She studied German, philosophy and English and holds a doctorate on Friedrich Nietzsche. She has been the editor of Die Christengemeinschaft, the journal of The Christian Community in Germany, since 2012.

Redemption

Christ's Resurrection and the Future of Humanity

MICHAEL KIENTZLER

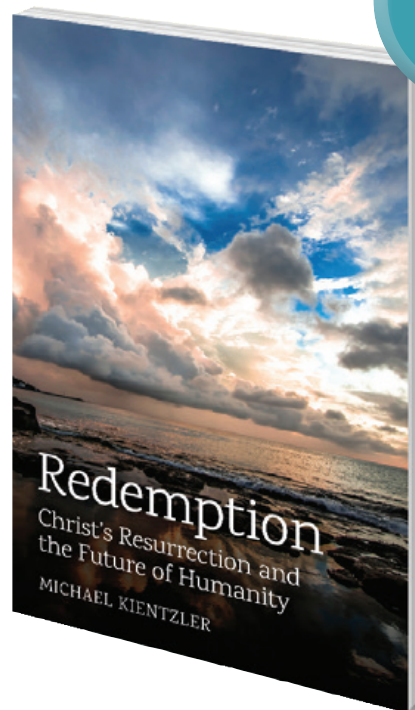

A thought-provoking collection of lectures exploring the spiritual keystone of Christianity: Christ's resurrection

- A collection of insightful lectures exploring the central mystery of Christianity from an experienced Christian Community priest
- Examines the nature of resurrection and how it leads to human redemption or salvation
- A profound book for readers engaging with inner spiritual development

Our human consciousness and individuality – and our potential for freedom of choice – is possible because we have a physical body, separate from the spiritual realm. But for human beings to continue to develop, we must reconnect to the divine world.

The incarnation, death and resurrection of Christ is what makes this reconnection possible. This profound book, a collection of lectures by Christian Community priest Michael Kientzler, discusses this central mystery of Christianity. He explores the nature of resurrection, and how it ultimately leads to human redemption or salvation.

This is a thoughtful, insightful book for those interested in spiritual and inner development.

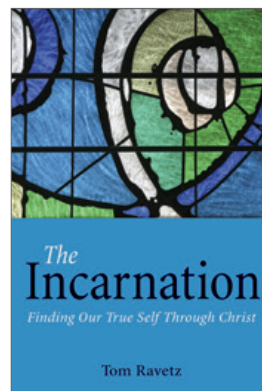

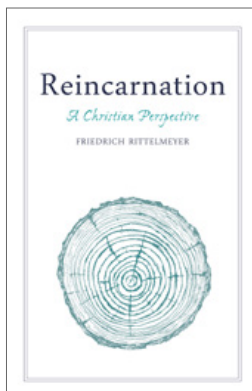

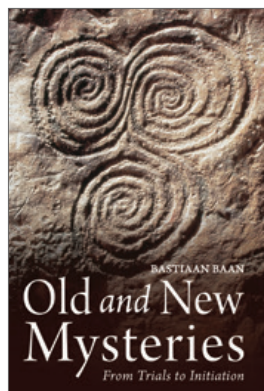

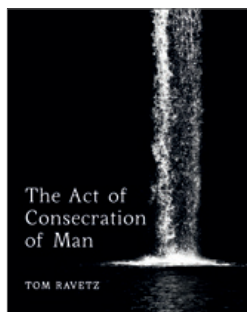

Michael Kientzler worked as a priest in Stuttgart for many years, before moving to Vancouver, Canada, and later to Forest Row, England. He now lives near Basel, Switzerland.
